PASTOR’S PERSPECTIVE

“My brethren, count it all joy when you fall into various trials, knowing that the testing of your faith produces patience.” James 1:2,3

At first glance this verse appears more philosophical than practically possible; “Smile at the trial, count difficulty as delight.” It may sound good but is it really possible to apply? When your boss is in your face, when the finger of a friend points at you, when the boring chores are weighing you down is it possible to count it all joy? I believe it is not only possible, it is powerful in dealing with difficulties. If you can look past and see the end result; the product, then it is easier to endure the process. How many athletes would continue with the rigors of training if that training did not produce the added strength, flexibility and endurance they were striving for? What serious college student would toil thru tests and study time just for the fun of it? If we know the process will produce the product then it is possible to “smile in the trial”. The process of James 1:2,3 is, ‘I will be in various trials which will test my faith and this process of testing will produce patience’. Also according to verse 4, patience that works in me will help bring me to maturity. So yes it is possible to count it all joy when our faith is tested, knowing the trial will produce patience (and much more according to Romans 5:3-5). For additional instruction and encouragement read the entire letter of James and may God grant you understanding and insight into His wonderful Word.

By His Grace, Pastor
